The State Housing Tax Credit (SHTC) is one of Minnesota's most effective tools for financing affordable housing, powered entirely by taxpayer contributions. It enables Minnesotans to reinvest their state tax dollars locally to build and preserve affordable homes in their own communities.

With smart improvements, it can work even better for every region of the state.

Empowering Minnesotans to Invest in their Communities

Pass HF 3902 | SF 4044

This program uniquely brings together companies, donors, and neighbors to unlock the money needed to build locally. It gives businesses a direct, powerful mechanism to address the workforce housing needs of their own communities.

Extend the program to ensure Minnesota keeps a high-demand housing investment tool.

The popularity of this program only continues to grow as our communities pull together to address the significant shortage of housing supply across our state. Level of demand signals clear public support and the need to expand and sustain the program.

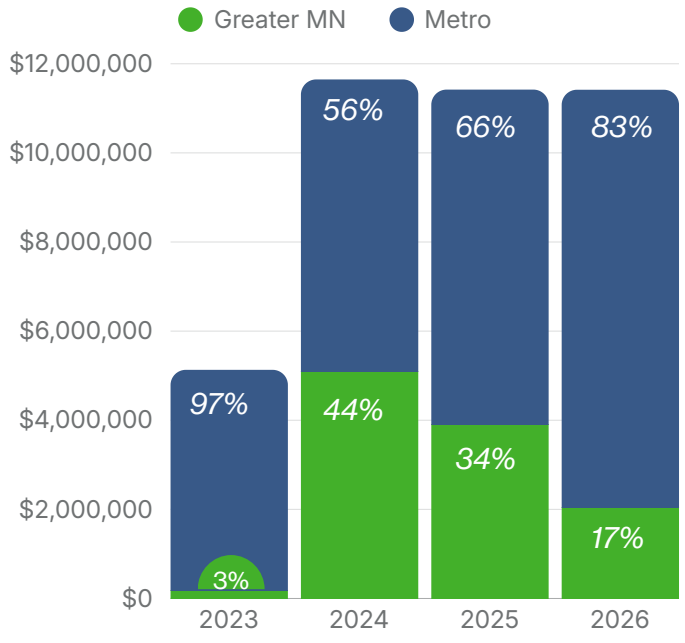

Ensure geographic balance amidst unprecedented demand.

Our rural communities have some of the most significant and specific challenges to financing and building housing. While Greater MN drives participation with many small contributions, the Metro received most of the funding with few, but larger contributions. It is essential that we add language ensuring geographical balance to the program.
